

27 August 2014

We are pleased to announce that the Asia-Pacific Library and Information Education and Practice (A-LIEP) Conference will be held here in the Philippines on October 21-23, 2015. Details on the venue, registration and other concerns will be announced on a later date.

The theme for the conference is: Asia-Pacific LIS: Exploring Unity and Diversity. The aim of the conference is to bring together speakers and participants to discuss and learn about the different and common practices in LIS education and profession from all over Asia and the Pacific.

We are inviting papers and posters for the conference. Topics can range from Global and Regional practices in LIS education and the profession; trends in research in LIS; developments in LIS services; management concerns and practices of libraries and information centers; cooperation among libraries and information centers, resource sharing; internationalization of LIS and many more. Submission of full papers and entries for posters will be on January 31, 2015. Submission details will be disseminated later. For the meantime, you can send inquiries regarding topics and concerns on paper submissions to Kathleen Obille (kate@slis.upd.edu.ph); Chris Khoo (chriskhoo@pmail.ntu.edu.sg) and Brendan Luyt (Brendan@ntu.edu.sg)
